

Phase 5: Headers, Footers, and Page Numbering

This document tests the page furniture system. The header should display the organization name, confidentiality label, and date. The footer should display the document title and page number. The engine renders these after the main content has been laid out, allowing correct page numbering across the full document.

[illegible]

1. Pagination Check

[illegible]

2. Final Page

This paragraph appears after a manual page break. The header and footer should still render correctly on this page.